

Formulation assistant (f/m/d) 20 h/month

Location: IZB Martinsried; Munich (within walking distance of the University)

Responsibilities and tasks include:

- General laboratory tasks, e.g., preparation of buffers and solutions according to protocols or instructions
- Prepare samples for testing using standard laboratory equipment and perform basic characterization of samples
- Assist the team to maintain supplies with the necessary laboratory materials
- Organization of chemical waste, clean and sterilize equipment and work area

Your profile:

- Students of natural sciences, technician with hands on wet-lab experience, or completed relevant vocational training (BTA, CTA or a similar qualification) or bachelor's degree in biomedical or life sciences
- Experience in nanoparticle preparation and characterization (dynamic light scattering) is a great advantage
- Highly independent and excellent organizational skills
- Reliable and a conscientious way of working, good understanding of good laboratory practice
- Good analytical skills with strong attention to detail
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Fluent English, a good knowledge of German is an advantage

What you can learn:

- Join us and work with a multidisciplinary and international team in a dynamic environment
- Gain insight into the development of next-generation nanoparticle-based therapies
- Learn about nanoparticle manufacturing methods and related analytical techniques

Interested?

Then sent your application to info@leon-nanodrugs.com

We are eagerly looking forward to get to know you better.